Stephan Zacharias told about three women shepherdesses hired in 1918 by rancher, B.J. Reno. They herded a band of 2,500 sheep and were thought to be the first of their kind out west. Sherry Lowell spoke of all the local/regional history she had learned from John Daly on the trip to the Museum of the Rockies in Bozeman, Mt. Charlene Busk told us that the radio show, Fibber McGee, first aired in 1935 on this day. Sandra Holyoak told of how her grandmother and youngest daughter herded a band of 2,000 sheep south of Rozet during WWII because of the shortage of male herders.

A motion was made by Sherry Lowell to approve the staff recommendations regarding the donations; seconded by Tami Bishop. Motion passed unanimously.

E. Museum Program/Exhibit Report

I. Education Report

A written education report from Museum Educator Penny Schroder was reviewed. Comments were made on the success of the museum sponsored WWII day for CCSD 6th graders. Feedback was given by Sherry Lowell and Tami Bishop on the availability of volunteers. They felt they had enough volunteers for their stations. It was recommended that the timeline of securing volunteers be moved up to as soon as a date for 2020 is chosen, staff begin the process of finding helpers. Stephan Zacharias will represent the museum at the AG-EXPO by hosting a station for 3rd graders that highlights the process of getting wool from the sheep to clothing.

F. Old Business

I. Strategic Goals Discussion and Adoption

Discussion included the changes made in response to staff input. John Daly does not think the goals are specific enough or measurable. He is concerned that without measurability, the strategic plan is weak. He suggested the staff might work on each goal in isolation, each department showing how their work contributes to achieving that goal. Sherry Lowell pointed out the goals are not linear in nature. She suggested using a program like Excel to chart progress of the museum departments in attaining strategic goals. Tami Bishop questioned working the goals in isolation and thought the objectives listed under the goals are where the accountability is found. By adopting this plan, staff and board members use these goals and objectives as a filter for all decisions concerning the museum. Stephan Zacharias stated that he would use the goals and objectives holistically when planning museum events. A motion was made by Rita Cossitt Mueller to adopt the Strategic Plan; seconded by Sherry Lowell. Motion passed with three yes votes (Cossitt Mueller, Lowell, Bishop), one no (Daly).

II. FY 19-20 Budget Approval

John Daly brought up the need for the budget to be presented earlier by Director Henning so that the Board might have more discussion and adjustment time before it is due to the county. Director Henning proposes having a budget ready to review by the Board at the February 2020 meeting. A motion was made by Rita Cossitt Mueller to approve the budget for FY 19-20 as submitted by Director Henning; seconded by Sherry Lowell. Motion passed unanimously.

III. Museum of the Rockies Follow-up Discussion

Sherry Lowell mentioned the spacious lobby area. The flow of the museum was not so smooth as she and John Daly got lost at one point in the visit. Tami Bishop was impressed by the partnerships the MOR has forged within their community and surrounding area that strengthens their educational programs and opportunities. The MOR has lots of pre-school programming based on supporting research. Stephan Zacharias found the fieldtrip helpful in giving ideas on how to tell the story of the Powder River Basin through time. Director Henning talked about the extraordinary storage area of the MOR and how unusual it is and how it allows the staff to “do whatever they want with storage like that.” He felt the history exhibits were lacking but the MOR staff knows it. After visiting this museum, Director Henning is confident that we can tell our story ~ it is that unique...we need to convince funders of this. John Daly echoed how the storage of the MOR is fantastic. They have a lot of furniture in their collection. He was not impressed by the small kids exhibits and felt the Yellowstone exhibit was sorely lacking. They have no restaurant. The paleontology was awesome, the guide had a PhD, was filled with technical knowledge but presented in an engaging way. He senses the organizational structure of the MOR is a hodge-podge with no clear hierarchy of decision-making. The gift shop was heavily weighted toward children. Our guest, Charlene Busk, asked about the size of actual exhibit space to which none of us could answer. Fundraising was discussed by John, Sherry, and Robert on the drive home.

IV. CWAM Conference Schedule

Robert Henning gave an overview of the upcoming conference list of events. He encouraged board members to be at the museum on Thursday, May 23rd for a meet and greet of attendees.

G. New Business

I. Board Resignation and Board Openings

Kelcie Hughes has submitted her resignation from the Board effective May 21, 2019. The county commissioners will be advertising this partial term and one other open seat. John Daly encouraged board members to solicit interested people and spoke of the downside to term limits, that being the loss of institutional knowledge.

H. General Discussion

I. Thank You Letters for this Month - The board signed some twenty letters.

II. Other:

Discussion by John Daly included the following:

Volunteers – ask them to become expert on a given subject. IE: Maggie McCreary McCoy, historic medical advancements through war. Use these experts for outreach programming.

Use of physical audits – The Rockpile Museum is not ADA compliant. IE: hearing assists, parking, wheelchair accessibility. Use these deficits to bring pressure on the commissioners for financing.

Develop relationships – IE: AVA for exhibiting with saleable objects at the gift shop, plein air events at historic ranches or sites.

Wool exhibit – make a permanent exhibit.

I. Adjourn

There being no further business Sherry Lowell moved to adjourn the meeting. Seconded by Rita Cossitt Mueller, meeting was adjourned by Board President Daly at 7:50 p.m.

The next regular board meeting will be held on May 21st with dinner at 5:30 p.m. and meeting beginning at 6:00 p.m.
